

Discover the difference between what you are getting
and what you deserve from your PBM.

The difference is clear with WellDyne.

Medications remain the most cost-effective, least-invasive treatment available for disease prevention and treatment. And with a robust drug approval pipeline and billions invested in bringing new therapies to market, many diseases without treatment in the past, now have promising new possibilities on the horizon.

Unfortunately, there are also “me too” drugs that drive up cost without adding value, coupled with excessive drug price inflation, medication adherence challenges, an increasing chronic disease population and even rising costs for what was once the industry’s most reliable savings vehicle – generic drugs.

There’s never been a more important time to make pharmacy benefits work harder and deliver more value.

Our mission is to be a disruptive force with a relentless focus on removing obstacles and solving issues that prevent better pharmacy care.

87% of pharmacy spend is driven by individuals with three or more chronic conditions

Why risk staying on the same path and getting the same results? At WellDyne, we're finding new and better ways to deliver pharmacy benefits. Here's how:

We keep patients in-the-loop, not in-the-dark with timely text updates tailored to their needs.

We're committed to low-cost, first line therapies – not just brands with rebates.

We contact members when the potential cost savings or benefit of a medication change outweighs the inconvenience.

We share patient adherence data with prescription claims history, so doctors have the insights they need to help patients get better.

We focus squarely on the chronic conditions driving 60% or more of plan costs.

We give patients updates on prior authorization status and decisions via text, not letters.

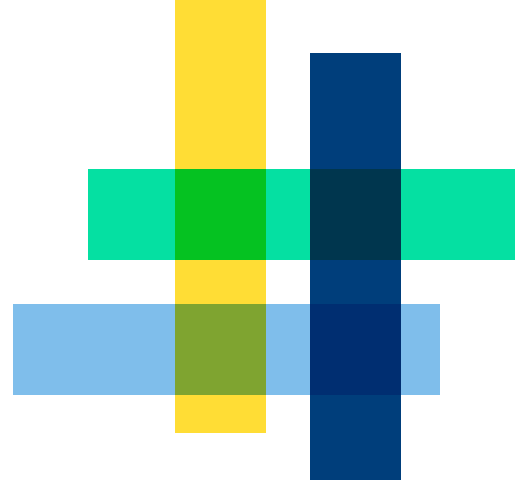

We text members with the precise dollar amount they can save by choosing an available generic or preferred brand.

We leverage financial assistance programs to help both the patient and the plan save more money.

We see abundant opportunities to disrupt the status quo and look forward to discussing how we are transforming pharmacy benefits to deliver greater value.

Better Begins Today.

WellDyne is a full-service pharmacy benefit manager that has kept pharmacy costs low and quality of care high for our clients for more than 25 years.

We help healthcare payers and patients take control of pharmacy costs, with a focus on specialty pharmacy – the fastest growing cost within healthcare today.
